

Potty Training

Schedule

Housebreaking schedule

MORNING:

*Rise early, carry pup outside immediately and praise when he goes potty.

*Tie puppy to your waist with a 10' string and go about your morning duties for 30-60 minutes

(if he piddles while tied, shorten the string).

*Tie string to doorknob and leave pup with his food and water for 10 minutes.

* Take pup outside to potty, untie the string from your waist and let puppy drag it.

*Tie puppy to your waist for 30-60 minute playtime.

*Take puppy outside to potty, letting string drag.

*Crate puppy for mid-morning nap (2-3 hours).

*Take puppy outside, letting string drag.

NOON:

* Tie pup to the doorknob for noon feeding.

*Take puppy outside to potty, letting string drag.

*Tie puppy to your waist for 30-60 minute play time.

*Take puppy outside to potty, letting string drag.

*Crate pup for afternoon nap (2-3 hours).

*Take puppy outside to potty, letting string dralay with pup outside, let him explore.

*Take pup to town for socialization and new sights.

*Let pup potty then crate him until dinnertime.

*Take puppy outside to potty, letting string drag.

TIP:

A dog's urine contains an enzyme that normal carpet cleaners do not destroy. Every time your dog smells his urine spot it acts as a trigger in his brain telling him that is his potty spot.

When your pup is fully housebroken, hire a professional carpet cleaner to treat your carpets with an enzyme eater to remove those tempting spots for your pup and begin with a clean slate!

EVENING:

*Tie pup to doorknob for evening feeding.

*Take puppy outside to potty, letting string drag.

*Tie puppy to your waist for 30-60 minute play time.

* Before retiring late, take pup outside to potty letting string drag.

*Crate puppy overnight. (Pups younger than 8 weeks may need to go out in the middle of the night).

With this schedule there should be no room for accidents, but if one should occur—it's YOUR fault.

Do not discipline the pup. Clean it up with an enzyme cleaner, sold as pet stain remover.

HINT:

Hang bells low from the doorknob and every time you take the pup out swat the bells with his paw saying "Want to go out?" Soon he'll be swatting the bells when he needs to go.

As his bladder and bowel control matures, (12 weeks) gradually let him have longer play times with the string dragging, not tied to you. When he nears the door or touches the bells, drop everything and run to let him out! Gradually cut the string back until it's gone.
